SPORTS On The Homefront

The Stukens were right with us on Labor Day. Frank led his Fenelon Cardinals to a one run win over Walkersville. He took the semi-final series. Way out west, big Annie Stukens, Frank's football brother, led his Edmontons Edmontons to an 18 to 5 victory over the Valley Stompers. This was the second win of the holiday weekend for big Stukens' team over last year's Edmontons.

Frank Stukens was a good trophy player in his hey-day around Toronto. Since coming to Fenelon to operate a successful summer home plate to pull the visiting team one ahead. The Valentia girls were not able to score in the second inning. Doris Griggs and Margaret Rodman, B. Irwin, B. Wallace, B. Ayres, Peter Taylor, Grace Moore, all crossed home plate to put the L.B. team well in the lead in the third inning. Valentia girls were acting but Jack was against them. In the last part of the first Maile Huggins and Vera Hicks came home for a count of two more runs.

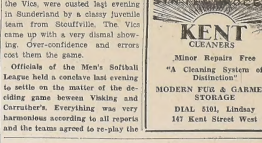

The L. B. girls were held down during the next couple of innings and were not able to score any runs. In the fifth inning Dorothy Morris scored home plate to count another run for the home team.

Marilyn Hill went back to the pitcher's box and relieved Dot Mark in the fourth inning. Jean Molton counted the only run made for the visiting team in the sixth inning and Marilyn Hill in the sixth inning. Dorothy Morris scored two more runs. Carol Morris scored in the fifth inning to make a score of seven runs for the home team with the Little Britain team scoring two runs by Grace Moore and Margaret Rodman in the fifth inning to make a count of 13.

Paris High Style Goes Ready-to-Wear

At $60 Up, It's Long Way From U.S. Mass Market

BY ROSETE BARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS—(NEA)—The revolution now brewing in the exclusive realm of high fashion has been brought to a head by five top-ranking Paris creators with their first collection of ready-to-wear models.

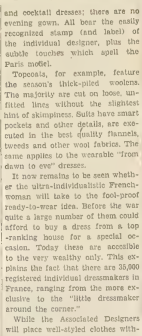

By September, clothes-conscious women who can't afford the astronomical prices of custom-made creations will be able to buy ready-made productions at prices ranging from $60 to $120—around one-third of what an exclusive model now costs.

The five who have formed the "Associated Designers" are Jacques Fath, Robert Piguet, Jean Dessès, Carven and Paquin. Each has created seven models which have been made up by eight of the leading manufacturers.

So far more than 10 stores in France and North Africa plus another 20 in Belgium, Holland, Sweden and Switzerland have agreed on the dotted line. There is no word yet on plans for an American invasion.

Because these ready-made clothes might reduce the sales of seasonal collections, Paris retailers are excluded. But there is nothing to prevent Parisians. If this is so, millions to buy her self a ready-made Parisian model.

While the Associated Designers will place well-styled clothes within the positions of a great number of Frenchwomen, the price tag is still the high for the average middle-class budget. The first attempt shows there is still a long way to go before it reaches mass production on American lines.

Charged After Fatal Accident

John Morris Porpet, of Alex, Ontario, was remanded for one week on a dangerous driving charge this morning.

The charge arose out of an accident, early Saturday morning in Coburns in which Charles Henry Booth was killed. Porpet, was the driver of the car owned by his father.

Booth at one time lived in Lindsay. He and his family lived for about ten years on Sussex Street North and Charles attended school while he was here. Mrs. Gordon McLean, of 8 Mill Street, and Mrs. H. Bower, of King Street, are nuns of Booth's.

He's 90 Today, Still Drives Goes Hunting

Today marks the 90th birthday of one of Bobcaygeon's native sons. Many friends and neighbors called at the home of Mr. A. E. Botum between three and five p.m. this afternoon to congratulate him on the occasion.

Mr. Botum, whose hearing and eyesight are perfect, operated his own hardware business in Bobcaygeon for over 10 years. The business is still managed by Mr. Botum's two sons, Lloyd and Claude.

Despite his age Mr. Botum is more active than many younger men. He still drives his own car, goes hunting every year, operates his own motor boat and paddles a canoe.

Mr. Botum was born in Bobcaygeon and has lived there all his life. He has one daughter, Mrs. B. E. Kelly, wife of Dr. Kelly, as well as his two sons.

During his stay in Lindsay, the accused is alleged to have issued three worthless cheques and obtained merchandise on credit by making false representations. It is further alleged that the accused used the name of two Lindsay business men in carrying out his transactions.

Chief of Police Arthur Webster said that the man was charged for driving a car which was stolen. He also said he claims they proved useful in helping the police make the arrest. Webster was picked up at 8:30 p.m. by Constable Roberts. He appeared in court this morning and was remanded for one week.

Kinmount (PNB)—A record crowd of about 4,000 people turned out Saturday at Kinmount Fair. Weather conditions were ideal and the fair was bigger and better than ever, according to those in attendance.

A parade half a mile in length led the main street as on parade, led by the Peterboro Fire Band. In the parade were a large number of decorated cars, decorated teams, bicycles, saddle horses, and school children. Malcolm Prud and his Ramblers rode on a truck and played several selections on the way to the fair grounds.

On the grounds there were amusements for everyone. The horse races were on as well as horse jumping and a drawing match. On the merry-go-round, ferris wheel and several games such as Guess Your Weight and Guess Your Age. There were also several booths on the grounds serving refreshments.

FAIR TIME IS HERE AGAIN

The first of a series of advertisements appearing in connection with the forthcoming Lindsay Central Exhibition serves to remind us that fair time is really at hand. While several fairs have already been held in Ontario, and while the big chief of all fairs is currently in progress in Toronto, it never seems like "fair time" locally until we start to hear about Lindsay Central Exhibition and many of the other agricultural fairs throughout the district.

Return of fair time in this section of the province marks the beginning of a very busy time for a good many local farmers who actively participate in these events by showing stock, entering horseman competitions and otherwise associating themselves with the fairs. It is also a very interesting time for the women of the homes which make up our agriculturally-minded region. They also exhibit extensively products of the home which make up a sizeable portion of every agricultural exhibition. Then there are those who are perhaps in the majority who are just naturally glad to see fair time come around because these shows are the first clear chance for doing a bit of travelling which they might otherwise not feel justified in doing and to go and see things which they might normally neglect to do.

Fair time has become an institution in this section of Canada and one which it is to be hoped will be perpetuated over the years. It would be indeed unfortunate if "fair time" were to be lost to our urban and rural communities. Our way of life would have suffered a tragic loss.

ONTARIO, A PROGRESSIVE PROVINCE

If anyone has any doubts as to the progressive nature of the Province of Ontario, the Premier, Leslie M. Frost, has taken steps to see that they are removed.

In a newly-prepared statistical letter in series form issued under his hand, vital but current information relative to Ontario is set forth. Typical of the facts contained in the first of these letters are the following summarizations:

1. The June, 1950 Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimate shows Ontario with a population of 4,512,000. The Confederation, Ontario has also had a larger population than any other Canadian province; but, in spite of an increase in absolute numbers, has declined from 40 per cent of the total population in 1901 to approximately 36 per cent at present. The greater part of this percentage decline occurred before 1916.

2. The Ontario population has more than doubled since 1901, but the increase did not keep pace with that in Canada as a whole, Quebec, the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia.

3. Ontario's average population density is only 13 persons per square mile, the lowest in the country; that of Canada's and, among Canada's regions, is exceeded only by the three Maritime Provinces.

4. In 1949, 50.6 per cent of the Ontario population were males as compared with 50.5 per cent in 1941.

5. In 1949, approximately 65 per cent of the residents of Ontario were classified as urban, as compared with 48 per cent in 1941.

6. In Ontario in 1949 about 117,525, as compared with 45,281 in 1901; 43,421 as compared with 28,800; natural increase, 61,104 as compared with 40,111; natural increase rate, 14.5 per cent, as compared with 19.1.

7. If the present population trend continues, Ontario will probably reach the 5,000,000 mark sometime before 1961.

IN YOUR OWN BEST INTERESTS...

It is a well known fact that the more warnings or words of caution. This is especially true of the inexperienced and, unfortunately, they are frequently the ones who would benefit most by heeding such remarks, particularly when it is relative to safety in highways.

As is customary at the onset of all big motorizing movements, the Ontario Highway Minister, Mr. Geo. Doucet, has appealed to all motorists to drive with care and to be on their guard against danger. He knows, in the light of available statistics, that this weekend is potential dynamite for safety records...

It may help people to heed such appeals if they remember they are designed to help us, not to restrict them. They are motivated by a desire on the part of those authorities to have greater safety on the roads and prevent the maiming and killing of scores of people.

Let us heed these pleas for safe driving in our best interests. Driving safely is the best way we can insure a happy holiday.

LAUGH IT OFF

Worry is something like a rocking chair. It gives you something to do—but it won't get you anywhere.

"George, you must be a worried fellow," said the man to the waiter on the dining car.

The other man said "Bring me the same, but eliminate the eggs."

In a moment, George came back.

"You can't have those, but just what did you say 'hott dam' sign?"

"I said you could eliminate them."

"Yassa," And he hurried away to the kitchen.

Another moment he came back, once more beamed confidently and positively over the table and said: "We had a bad accident just 'fore we leave de depot de mawin', boss, and de 'liminator dose busted off de right de hand. Will you take em fried same as de hyar gon'na?"

TENDENCY TO SHUFFLE ALONG

Few men can carry themselves really well nowadays. There is no swing to their arms, and there is a tendency to slouch or to shuffle along. There is often a lack of briskness in their walk. Young people are inclined to think that to carry a cane is evidence of old age, but even young people would benefit by the "polo" that it gives the carrier.

WHY BEEF IS COSTLY

Meat prices are the cause of concern to every consumer. There are several reasons. Basic is the fact that following the high-producing war years, many farmers let down on production due to uncertainty about future markets and the feeling general at the time, that the wartime demand for food would not continue. Then the U.S. market was opened up and the market there appears insatiable, with prices continually climbing. The net result is that Canadians are practically compelled to pay U.S. prices for home-produced beef. This demand for beef, even for the poorest quality, has resulted in several side-effects that may have far-reaching results. The excessive sale of dairy cattle, especially young heifers and calves, points to a shortage of such stock in a year or two and a possibility of a milk shortage within a few years. It is easier to sell a producing dairy cow than to breed and raise a milking age. Practically any animal that can be turned into hamburger, Bologna or corn dog food commands a good price on district farms today, and the drovers are out in swarms after them.

(Ottawa Journal)

OLD WAY STILL GOOD

Any one who knows what the price will eventually be for wheat grown in 1950 can save a large amount of money, and make it easily. The ultimate value of this grade of wheat, when the market becomes stabilized, is an unknown factor but it is obvious that ample commercial storage facilities do not exist for 25 million bushels of it. It has been the practice for Ontario farmers to store their own wheat and finally dispose of it when the market settled down to a price where an available supply and consumer demand. Those in touch with the situation are advising producers to act in the same manner again this year, and knowing something about the cost of feed, growers who are looking for a milking age will tend to convince that they will lose nothing by holding.

If the present set of circumstances is to recur annually, fall wheat growers will likely review their harvesting methods and carefully weigh the respective advantages of combining and machine threshing.

Hardening the wheat in the straw was a good way before this era of big machines. The old way is still a good way—Farmer Advocate.

FACTS ABOUT SLAVE LABOUR

Miss Tull Sender of the American Federation of Labour reported recently before the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations to give evidence on the extent of slave labour in the Soviet Union. The speaker produced photographic copies of documents obtained from informants in the Gosplan (Soviet State Planning Administration). These documents revealed that MVD, the Secret Police organization, is the biggest employer of slave labour in the Soviet Union, having assigned to it fourteen per cent of the appropriation for capital construction. Three-quarters of Soviet gold, forty per cent of Soviet chrome, and one-eighth of Soviet timber are produced by slave labour.

WICKEDNESS THE MOST DUTY

"Communist wickedness is the ugliest duty to accept the necessity of acting wickedly. This is the greatest sacrifice the revolution asks from us. The conviction of the true Communist is that evil transforms itself into good through the dialectics of historical evolution."

The authority for this is Dr. George Lukacs repeating the answer to a question addressed to Bona Duvick, ex-Communist whose name is included in "The God That Failed". Dr. Lukacs, formerly a literary critic, became a member of the Politburo of Hungary and afterwards a leading ideologist of Stalinism.

This Communist gospel spreads as a secret of doctrine from mouth to mouth until it is regarded as the semi-official quinescence of "True Communism", as indeed the one real criterion is today. This makes it easier to understand "The Canadian Tribune"—Responsible Enterprise

BRICK FOR PRAIRIES

Easterners who visit the Prairies always note one feature about houses in the West. Few of them are of brick, most being of frame or stucco exterior. To one accustomed to the brick houses of Ontario, this seems strange. But homes in any part of the world are built with the materials which are most readily available and economical.

There may be more brick buildings out West in the future. Hon. L. F. McIntosh, chairman of Saskatchewan Minerals (The Province's Mineral Resources) has announced that the province has a large supply of a new $400,000 brick plant at Erbevaan. If brick can be made cheaply enough, and in sufficient quantities, they will be used on the Prairies just as in Ontario. The climate demands the warmest house that can be got for the money.

No honest man can be neutral in the struggle against Communism, says Agriculture Minister James Dillon of the Republic of Ireland. To be neutral is to help the Communists.

Well, if a major war develops, one can assume the Republic will place its ports, as well as its manpower, at the disposal of the democracies, a different position from World War I. Then the Republic of Ireland volunteered for British forces in thousands, but the war effort was

MILK PRICE INCREASE IS POSSIBLE

There is a possibility that the price of milk may advance in Lindsay, Ontario, during the week of Nov. 15, it was revealed during a telephone interview with the head of Lindsay's largest dairy. It was an opinion that the producers of this district may follow the pattern set by Toronto's dairies which raise a price rate.

Mr. H. S. Johnston, Silverdown Lindsay manager, told the Post that it was necessary under the terms of their charter, for milk producers to meet annually to determine the price they would set for milk the following year. He said there was a chance that they could decide to leave milk prices at their present level but he doubted such would be the case. He was speaking yesterday as a distributor. A spokesman for the distributor association could not be located.

While Lindsay is not in the Toronto district, it has been reported that the price of milk is increasing in the latter city. The fact that the price of milk may jump an extra cent a quart in Toronto. If the new price agreement between the Toronto district producers and the distributors requires a hike in the base price of milk, the price of pasteurized milk may advance from the present 25¢ to 26¢ a quart.

There, other Lindsay dairies were contacted by the Post and all said they were aware of any impending increase in the price of milk in this area. The general conclusion was that the lion in bottles that there would be no increase for some time. They were of course also open to any distribution, too.

Mr. Harry Burgess, proprietor of Ontario Creamery, was also contacted and stated that there was no planned increase in the price of milk in that area. At present, milk can be purchased in Ontario, for 17 cents per quart and many of the retailers have not been charging for the bottles. Lastly, Mr. Burgess has pointed out that the price of milk has been too low to warrant this charge and he may start to charge for the bottles in the near future.

Find Death Felon Man Is Accidental

As a result of the inquest into the death of James York, 40, of Preston street, it was determined that the man was very responsible for his death.

York had died on the way to Lindsay from Preston Falls where he had been arrested for being intoxicated. Witnesses who were drinking with him on the night of his death verified that the man was not intoxicated.

Dr. Crowe, coroner, stated that his findings had shown that the man had died of a heart attack, but he was too much alcohol in the system. It was revealed that York suffered from a coronary disease and also had a very high blood pressure in his system. Although, these two were responsible for his death, according to the coroner.

Lift Optical Controls On Consumer Goods

Here in Canada, optical controls on a long list of consumer goods, including such items as electric fixtures—will be lifted in October.

Trade Minister C.D. Howe says the controls will come off nearly half the present restricted list of articles—and higher prices will be established for others.

Pork and pork products will be removed from the list, said December 31 this year.

The relaxation goes 45 to 100 items off the list of articles for which special permission is needed. These include chemicals and paint, materials, heavy machinery and railway equipment.

Alcohol and alcohol products, including such items as liquor, beer and wine, will be removed from the list.

Lifting of import controls on a long list of consumer goods next October 1, just announced by Trade Minister C.D. Howe, is not expected to have any effect on the price of these commodities here in Lindsay.

That was the opinion of local dealers contacted by the Post. Relaxation of the government's import restrictions simply means that the items, which include sugar, tires, glassware and electrical appliances, can be brought into Canada without a permit. The same amount of duty will have to be paid, and so the price will be the same, officials point out. The only difference will be that the goods can be brought in.

Local consumers officials had not been informed of the change but one local merchant said that he didn't think the effect of the move would be felt here for some time at least because of the present inflation in the United States. He pointed out that it would mean lower prices for such things as shoes, hardware, vacuum cleaners, washing machines and electric shavers.

Local dealers say it is unlikely to result in lower prices since practically all our lives are manufactured in Canada anyway.

ECA Dollars In Africa: Farm Revolution and Diamonds

U.S. Investing $275 Million in 'Dark Continent'; Repayment Will Be in Many Forms, Including Tin

WASHINGTON (NEA). Uncle Sam's Marshall Plan dollars—$275,000,000 of them—were bringing post-war light to the "dark continent" of Africa in a widespread program that embraces everything from an agricultural revolution to a diamond stockpile.

The American millions, plus another $100,000,000 in counterpart European funds are being invested by the Economic Cooperation Administration in British, French and Belgian colonial areas to buy increased food production, improved health for the natives, and greater production of exports to bring in dollars.

For the U.S., the program opens a big market for machinery and new sources of industrial diamonds, gold, tin, manganese and other strategic materials that lie beneath African mountains and deserts.

American technical know-how is part of the contribution, too. Experts like Dr. W. V. Lambert, dean of the University of Nebraska's College of Agriculture; Dr. W. A. McCull, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture; and Dr. Arthur H. Chase, of Cornell University, have helped agriculture in the African continent.

Miss Eleanor H. Miller, of Iowa State University, is helping the British Colonial Office fight locusts. Dr. Frederick J. Brady, of the U.S. Public Health Service, and Harry R. Some of the Marshall Plan dollars will be repaid in produce, rather than dollars. A $1,700,000 loan to a Belgian firm for tin mining machinery—to be purchased in the U.S.—will be paid back in tin from the Belgian Congo for Uncle Sam's stockpile. ECA advances of more than $2,000,000 for diamond mining machinery and development in French Equatorial Africa will be repayable with interest in industrial diamonds also extracted for the U.S. stockpile.

A project to mechanize rice farming in French West Africa is paying in French West Africa to provide basic food for a growing population involves $1,400,000 in ECA financing. This covers tractors for traction, graders, scrapers and other machinery to help develop about 120,000 acres of new land by 1957.

What may be the biggest new construction job in Africa—a railroad linking the Rhodesian and Basutia systems—is still in the development stage. But ECA is working on it as a "technical assistance undertaking" with three New York experts leading the study.

Parisian Designers' Latest Fashions Make the Most of Feminine Figures

By ROSETTA MARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS (NEA)—A slim silhouette with sloping shoulders, waisted waist, accented bosoms and gracefully pointed hips sounds like most people's ideal for a pretty feminine figure.

This year, except for a few style eccentricities, it seems to be the ideal for the Paris world of high new fashion too. There are some fancy names for it in the 1950-51 collection, but they all shape up to the same shape.

Jacques Fath, for instance, calls it the "column" silhouette, with drapes to give width to the bust for the column's top, and fullness to the lines for the pedestal. Jean Denes calls it the "tunic" theme, and Curves says it's the "lantern line."

Everyday, unless Schiaparelli is counted as a dissenter because of his weird aesthetic, seems to be following the pattern set by Christian Dior whose collection was the first unveiled. Here are some of the ways the top-name designers express the idea.

Pierre Balmain takes his theme from Central Asia and the Near East, with fullness as part of the main construction of his dresses, introduced at side of back in deep folds. Day-to-day looks like a combination of the "lantern" idea in wool and jersey—almost from down to eye—are named with unfussy names like "the hobble variety for daytime wear. Jean Denes uses the tunic theme in every way imaginable. Always combined with the basic sheath dress. Belts sport a handkerchief square which cascades down the side, and suit skirts have an "X" or "Y" effect at the back for ease of movement.

Curves following the same silhouette, adds the "lantern" idea with sleeves gathered at the shoulders, often pagoda-shaped, and some gathered into deep pleats. Always, a relative newcomer pre-

NORTH KOREAN PAMPHLET depicting U.S.-South Korean

By PETER FOSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The battle of Korea is a psychological warfare, as well as a shooting war.

All the propaganda tricks the Russians have mastered in 30 years of stirring up trouble all over the world are now being used in an effort to break the will of South Koreans and Americans fighting to put down North Korean aggression.

Radio broadcasts, pamphlets, handbills, posters, and truck amplification of recording and leaflets dropped from low-flying airplanes enter into this war of ideas (Communism against freedom).

U.S. and South Korean psychological warfare units are working in kind. Assistant Secretary of State Edward W. Barrett estimates that some 100,000 U.S.-grown leaflets have been dropped on North Korea by American planes in the first month of the war.

In charge of psychological warfare against North Korea is Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby of General MacArthur's staff. But the joint chiefs of staff psychological warfare section and the Public Affairs office of the State Department both in Washington shape the policy on telling the Koreans the truth about the war.

Comparisons of the first pamphlets of these bulletins released in Washington to the Russians to get much more cunning and poisonous in their approach. American information leaflets and radio broadcasts are factual, truthful, but somewhat colorless. The North Korean propaganda is exaggerated, plays on the audience's weakness and prejudices, and frequently repeats lies to drive home points.

In their pamphlets and leaflets, the Communists use many cartoons. In these drawings, President Syngman Rhee of Korea, General MacArthur and all Americans are drawn to look like pigs.

The New York Times of this kind make quick impressions on the gullible persons.

A copy of one Communist, plane-dropped leaflet sent back to Washington shows a South Korean officer ordering two South Korean soldiers to shoot a girl and a woman. "Who orders you to shoot your own people?" asks the caption. "Kill these vice officers and come to North Korea," it directs.

By contrast, one typical American-prepare leaflet dropped on the North Koreans carries a picture of General MacArthur with the caption, "Listen each day at 2100 Korean time, over 160 100-cycles to truthful news broadcast from General MacArthur's headquarters." On the other side of this leaflet is a prisoner of war warning "Pork North Korea... who are taken into custody of armed forces now under my command... will be treated in accordance with humanitarian principles. I will hold responsible any individual acting for North Korea who violates from these principles, MacArthur."

lies depicts the "officer," as a Japanese to promote national Korea

Other American-dropped leaflets show pictures of President Truman with some of his recent pronouncements, the United Nations flag with excerpts from the UN resolution of Korea pictures of U.S. 44 plane flights with more notices of news broadcasts and the slogans "Free the South" and "No war. Korea is not alone in her hour of need."

Value of American broadcasts peaked at Korea have been stepped up. Some of the programs originate in the United States. Most are recorded and rebroadcast from local stations in Japan and Korea.

A 15-minute daily United Nations broadcast in Korean, originating in New York, is rebroadcast from Japan. This program plays up the angle that 50 countries have now joined in support of the South Korean Republic, and are united to put down North Korea.

As soon as hostilities broke out, the State Department's main U.S. information service staff in Korea went to work to keep up the morale of the South Korean people and prevent panic. But it was drawn out of Seoul almost immediately, losing facilities of the "higher-powered" stations in the capital.

Since then four smaller stations in Southern Korea have been used constantly to help stabilize internal conditions and to offset Communist propaganda. One of the principal assignments has been in trying to keep the roads clear, and to direct day won't interfere with troop movements and supplies.

"Pinky" Reverses Adage about the Purple Cow

Buck Chis
NEA Special Correspondent
Gaston, Ind. (NEA) - If you'd rather see a purple cow, as the saying goes, than be one, look in on Fred Poormen's farm near Gaston.

It was one that isn't exactly purple, but it may be as close as you'll ever get. This cow is pink, except when she gets sunburned, when she's pinker.

"Pinky" is a 16-month-old Jersey-Cowboy, born without hair and still bald as a kernel of indiana corn farmer Poormen thought he'd give her hair on his hands when "Pinky" was born, but veterinarians assured him her only ailment is that she's a "frank of nature" they've never seen before.

It's her baldness, rather than her color, that makes "Pinky" a problem cow.

Last winter she slept under blankets, and when she went out she wore a couple of pairs of Poormen's old blue jeans to keep her feet warm.

When summer came it turned out she sunburned easily. Right now "Pinky" has a little tan, but it's fading. Most of her legs are inside the barn until autumn, except on cloudy days when she can go out

How To Fly 188 Miles On 63 Cents

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (NEA)—Lundrum L. Hughes flew to Dallas Tex. the other day for 63 cents. That's what it cost him for fuel for the 188-mile hop in his 4-place, 14-horsepower plane, and he hopes that some day automobiles and trucks, as well as other airplanes, will be traveling on the same cheap fuel.

The Oklahoma City inventor does it by using kerosene gas, which costs from five to seven cents a gallon, instead of gasoline at 32 cents a gallon.

LOW (COST) FLYING: Inventor Lundrum Hughes shows airport op-

So I decided to compare legs. Which is a nice hobby on a warm summer evening. A platinum blonde in a blue velvet bathrobe caught my fancy. This time she held it.

The other two judges picked the right, and then they began parading. It was the same thing all over again. Very boring.

I made a conscious effort to look

The other judges picked the fourth winner. Fortunately, we all agreed on the first three. Proving that the other judges were human, too.

So you see, judging bathing beauties is a tedious task, one that demands long years of experience. And plenty of red-blooded male intuition.

Business Shuns Excess Food Stockpiling in Crisis

NEA Food and Markets Editor
New York - (NEA) — One question that has been bothering the NEA is whether the food hoarding spurred by the Korean war has led to date there is no evidence that the food business is repeating its 1943 stockpiling by buying up supplies far in excess of normal needs.

George Dias, editor of the sugar section of the NEA, says that agricultural production and marketing sugar branch reports that from all they can find out large food manufacturers have not been buying up supplies in excess of the sugar supply.

He says that the industrial users had allowed stocks to run lower than usual this spring. They were expecting a drop in demand which did not materialize. Then on June 23, when it was announced that sugar prices would rise, the industrial users in areas and by July 10 in others, they naturally decided to save money and buy up some extra supplies.

Their buying came before the Korean affair — at least their orders were placed before the Korean war with them. It was simply a question of buying while prices were lower.

Another Agriculture Department spokesman said in view of the fact that his department's report that his budget deficit for the year was $1.5 billion, the government would react to the Korean situation with caution. But up to now, he reported, no tensions have been felt in the food supply. Manufacturers are aware of agricultural problems in the food supply picture today, he points out.

The 1984-85 world sugar crop is expected to be 10.5 million metric tons, says sugar beet crop is also expected to be 10.5 million metric tons. The 1984-85 world sugar cane crop is expected to be 10.5 million metric tons, says sugar beet crop is also expected to be 10.5 million metric tons.

Paul S. Wills, director of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, does not expect this to happen. He says that the shortages of sugar and other commodities in the stores are caused only by delivery delay.

Wills says that the shortages of sugar and other commodities in the stores are caused only by delivery delay.

The 1950 Presentation of Lindsay Central Exhibition

The gates will soon swing open to admit the throngs to the 1950 presentation of the Lindsay Central Exhibition, one of the Province's leading agricultural fairs.

A special effort has been put forward this year to feature the exhibition's opening day. An extravaganza of high class musical talent has been booked for the grandstand performances on this day. These include such outstanding artists as the "Commodores", a male quartet whose vocal renditions have won them widespread acclaim—the Leslie Bell Singers and the Violetttes, the latter a team of Swiss bell ringers of unusual skill.

In addition to these opening day features there will, of course, be many other attractions of interest throughout the week all of which should assure a high level of attendance.

Lindsay has reason to be proud of the exhibition's progress as it stands recorded at the half-way mark of the 20th century. It has, during the course of the years established itself as an institution in the life of the community such as few communities of comparable size can boast.

In presenting this special Fair Edition of the Lindsay Post congratulations on past achievements and best wishes for a successful 1950 ahead are in order.

We can all contribute to the fulfillment of the success of the exhibition by making a personal appearance during its progress.

Completion of Beautiful Carpet Took Queen 8 Long Years

Don't fail to see Queen Mary's carpet, the unique feature of this year's Lindsay Central exhibition. Queen Mary worked on the English Irish Country design hand-made needlepoint carpet, 19" by 37" 9" 12" for eight years, picturing it taking nine place among the famous tapestries in Windsor Castle. When Britain's emerald crown became worn the Queen Mother decided to give it as her personal contribution to the nation to be sold as a dollar export, with the only stipulation that the carpet will hang in a public place. The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire offered to the British Empire Committee to establish a fund open to the general public to enable as much money as possible (there will be a national exhibition charge, or by your donation.

Seaside, Wash.—(GPA)—Put on the most thing, they probably will be up in price soon and it won't all be because U.S. hogmeat prices are related to the low Russian fur carpets. The sale themselves are no good reason. That's the report of the men who operate Uncle Sam's biggest fur-growing enterprise on the Pribilof Islands in the Bering sea, far off the coast of Alaska. Edward C. Johnson, of the Fish and Wildlife Service here, who is general manager of the Pribilofs, says the government harvested a lighter-than-usual crop of seal skin this summer. The yield was 80,000 skins, compared with a 10-year average of 90,000.

"They returned from the Dead" is a display depicting the escape of prisoners from the horrors of the German concentration camps. At the present time who knows what is going on behind the "Iron Curtain" and some of these happenings are especially portrayed at the Lindsay Central Exhibition in the Conklin Shows.

SEAL SHORTAGE Seals Rise In Price

GROWING FUR FOR UNCLE SAM: This is just a handful of the summer population on the U. S. fur seal reservation on the Pribilof Islands. Total population is estimated at 300,000.

Seaside, Wash.—(GPA)—Put on the most thing, they probably will be up in price soon and it won't all be because U.S. hogmeat prices are related to the low Russian fur carpets. The sale themselves are no good reason. That's the report of the men who operate Uncle Sam's biggest fur-growing enterprise on the Pribilof Islands in the Bering sea, far off the coast of Alaska. Edward C. Johnson, of the Fish and Wildlife Service here, who is general manager of the Pribilofs, says the government harvested a lighter-than-usual crop of seal skin this summer. The yield was 80,000 skins, compared with a 10-year average of 90,000.

Another indication of a price hike last spring when the government auctioned off the 1948 kill. Uncle Sam received an average of $45.00 per skin, as against $55.00 last year. Johnson blames it on "excess fluctuations, such as occur in all wildlife populations". The returns of seals to the Pribilofs each spring is one of nature's unexplained mysteries. Customs and fogs of the islands are believed one of the main reasons. During early spring they start the migration northward, after wintering in warm waters off Southern California. The migration is carefully guarded by U. S. Coast Guard cutters. The bulls, large, weighing up to 800 pounds and measuring six to seven feet across at the shoulders, arrive in April. The females, or cows, come shortly thereafter. They weigh about 100 pounds. Since a bull is not mature until he is about seven years old, and being poisonous by nature, he quickly builds up a harem of about 40 to 50 cows. This leaves a lot of young, bachelor males. Thus, many of the three-year-olds, still immature, are killed for their skins and the futures of the herd is not endangered. Size determines a three-year-old.

The killing is fairly easy, but a selective matter, because the healthiest generally segregate off by themselves. In many herds, the natives drive the milks into the grassy meadows, knock them out with a six foot club, and then milk them.

Pick Committee To Look After Carpet Made By Queen

A committee of five members—Mrs. T. L. Broadfoot, Mrs. Evelyn Bain, Mrs. T. H. Elmer and Mrs. S. B. Pitts will be in charge of the arrangements for the showing of the Queen Mary carpet at the Lindsay Exhibition, and members will assist to assist in the booth, Mrs. Evelyn Bain, of the Keweenaw chapter announced at the first monthly meeting held in the new quarters at the Red Cross rooms, on Monday, September 11th.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. McHenry, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. L. T. Walker.

In recording the passing of a charter member, Mrs. George Blackwell, the Regent, Mrs. Evelyn Bain, of the Keweenaw chapter, in the chapter for many years.

Reports were given by Mrs. McCarty, Executive Personnel Committee, Mrs. Wilson, Child and Family, Mrs. Brown, Post-war, Immigration and Canadianization Committee.

With regard to the resignation of Mrs. Madson as Personnel Secretary owing to illness was recorded. The sum of five dollars was voted to the Mary McCullough Memorial Fund, which has been designated to furnish a room in her memory in the new Convention to be built by the Hamilton House Association.

A bachelorette sale will be held in the Town Hall in October with Mrs. L. C. Rummel as co-chairman.

Four new members, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Baker, Miss Allen and Miss McNeill were welcomed into the chapter.

Members of the local I.O.D.E. chapters will man the booth at the Lindsay Central Exhibition during the showing of Queen Mary's carpet, a unique feature of this year's Exhibition.

Thanks to the generosity of Mrs. George Williamson, in donating his cash, the carpet will be on display in the Manufacturers' Bldg.

Laura Hamby Addresses WMS

Oakwood (PNS) The September meeting of the W.M.S. was held in the schoolroom of the Oakwood United Church with Mrs. Hamby in the chair.

The meeting opened by singing "What the World Needs is Jesus" which was the basis of the theme for the worship service. Prayer was offered for the sick and absent members, and especially for Mrs. Mary Hale, a missionary in Japan, who is the special missionary for the month, written by Miss Hale, were read and her picture, in the new study book was shown. Plans for the coming year were discussed and offerings for the Oakwood Fair were made and a committee named to make district arrangements. The part of the business was in charge of the secretary, Mrs. Arthur Brown. Miss Laura Hamby, a retired missionary from West China, was present and gave an inspiring talk the spots first of the spiritual privilege, she had had in attending the World Christian Resource meeting held recently in Toronto and especially in meeting the delegates from America. She stressed existing conditions in China and the Communist have come and placed emphasis on the fact that the W.M.S. is the praying group for missionary work. Prayers were read and a social time spent.

Interview's a Horse on Reporter— And the Horse Gets Last Laugh, Too

Q—Tell me, Smokey, where will the Dodgers finish this year?
A—Smockey purred the ground three times, indicating they'll finish third. I explained he was a pity fan.

Q—What is your opinion about International control of the atom bomb?
A—Smockey shrugged his shoulder. era. If you've never seen a horse shake his shoulders, you've never lived.

Q—Will the United Nations force us able to hold on to Korea?
A—Smockey nodded yes, emphatically.

Q—Tell me, Smokey, who do you like in the fifth at Saratoga?
A—Smockey thought a minute, then purred the ground eight times.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
New York—(NEA)—It doesn't take much to collect a crowd in New York. There I was simply incensed. Hearing a horse, and a bunch of savvy people pushed around. You'd think something unusual was going on.

Smockey is one of the most intelligent horses around. For one thing, he never bet on the races. For another, he can talk—several talk, anyway. When you ask him a question, he'll answer it by nodding his head yes or no, or by counting with his right front hoof.

He was in New York for a reason. He's making his radio debut on John Reed King's "Give and Take." He's quite smart. Smokey brought with him Joe Phillips, a trained man who accompanies him wherever he goes.

Smockey is a grey horse. You might say he's pretty good-looking because he's only nine years old. He's been with Phillips a couple of years, for six years. Phillips knows a lot of stunts by now.

I had decided that I wanted to talk to Smokey. Here was a one-of-a-kind chance to get some information right from the horse's mouth. You might be interested in a night-by-night account of our talk.

Q—Well, Smokey, you're a trick horse. How's that?
A—Smockey gave me a fishy stare. A neck trick for a horse?

Lenora and Her Snake

Quite an unusual necklace is worn by one of the performers in the Great Side Show of the Conklin Shows at the Lindsay Central Exhibition. Showing absolutely no fear of the poisonous reptiles, Leonora has an interesting exhibit and story to tell to all the patrons of this Great Show.

SPLIT JACKPOT: Makers of machines like this no longer belong to the Coin Machine Institute; they have their own.

ted his company was aiding the violation of the laws of 43 states, but said it was up to local communities to decide whether or not slot machines should be permitted to operate. He said that where local residents were firmly against the use of slot machines, they usually saw to it the devices were prohibited in the area.

James and Schultz declared the manufacture of gambling devices was only about five per cent of the business done by both of the firms they represent. They also make juke boxes and vending machines. When asked by the curious congressman as to why their firms didn't switch this small fraction of their output to the making of non-gambling devices, both Jones and Schultz said their companies would go out of business if they lost their slot machine trade.

Members of the congressional groups who have been studying bills to halt interstate shipment of gambling machines, and interstate dissemination of racing news, say that they are attempting no U.S. crime expose. They say they are leaving the expose of the big crime syndicates up to the special Senate probe, to be led by Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), which will get under way soon with a budget of $160,000.

A daring and novel innovation is the presentation of The Dream Girl Show at the Lindsay Central Exhibition with the Conklin Shows. A startling expose of human frailties - peculiarly applicable to every person, is presented in a most interesting manner.

A Message To Exhibitors and Visitors:

Our improvement programme: Many things are in the process of being completed for the further accommodation and convenience of our patrons.

Our programme for 1950 will be the most ambitious yet attempted, with a view of giving our visitors high class entertainment. This new programme will be advertised through the press and other forms of advertising as the time for our Exhibition approaches.

Prize money has been increased in many instances. New classes have been added and nothing has been done to make this year our greatest in our long history.

We sincerely hope that you will like what we have to offer. We are confident that the position which we have already attained in the Fair World will be maintained.

Yours very sincerely,

W. B. GRAHAM, President. B. L. McLEAN, Manager.

Modified 'Business as Usual' Right Now Is Best For Defence, Says Top Food Leader

More Help Than Full Controls, Bulls Claims

BY GAYNOR MADDOX.

NEA Food and Markets Editor.

NEW YORK (NRA) "Business as usual" with the government will do more for our accelerated defence program than control measures to force the hand," is the firm belief of one of the nation's top food industrialists.

His statement was expressed by Harry A. Bull, chairman of the board of General Mills, in an exclusive interview.

He gave this as the reason: "In 1941, I was in London during the war. I saw the British government's policy of 'business as usual' and the results were better than any other policy."

Continues during the past few weeks with General Mills and General Mills, Bull says, "I have never made him hopeful that the Korean industry can be kept in the United States."

He said that though it will be a long time, he is confident that the American industry can take this and other expected localized outbreaks in its stride and steadily return to normal production.

2. He believes the economy today is much more sensitive than it was in 1940. Our labor force is all at work, our industries producing at full capacity. Our economy is therefore more vulnerable to the shocks of increased unemployment.

He said that it was 11 years ago that the Korean industry was moved to the United States. He said that it was 11 years ago that the Korean industry was moved to the United States.

Coal, Cracked Glass, Round Rooms: It's Home

By NEA Service
AURORA, Ill.—(NRA) — There's a sign outside the new home of Mrs. A. G. Ford and the circular central portion, and a few other things, like bling-bling, that make it a home.

That room is devoted to ward the new home. But over and new home is designed. The above the window design are the structure looks like a big apple still—more unique building buried in the ground, with two big. The house, being made of, is an apple. The apple is an apple. The apple is an apple.

When Ford, a gas engineer, saw the plans, he looked them over for about two hours without saying a word. Then, finally, he turned to Ford and his wife and said, "This probably will be the most interesting place in the world to live. Let's build it!"

Inside the large central portion of the house will be one big circular room, on two levels. The lower level will be the kitchen and dining area, complete with built-in circular lounge in front of a fireplace. The upper level will be Mrs. Ford's study, directly under a big skylight. This part will also be a combination living

Air Conditioning Is Hot, From a Sales Standpoint

By RUSSELL BROSART
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—You can buy yourself a cool summer for less than $500 these days, and you don't even have to put out a cent of your own in the sweating city.

Now do you pull this off? Just breeze in a room air conditioner (window type, not the big jake box from the '30s).

Right now, thanks to price slashes that bring them down to the average level, these little coolers are, as the expression, the hottest thing in the household field outside of television.

Last year the manufacturers turned out 100,000 room coolers, including a fair number of floor models. That was three times the output of 1947, last pre-war year. But this year the industry is shooting for 180,000 units, nearly double 1948 and if war mobilization doesn't interfere, 1951 will be bigger still.

Everybody's getting into the field. The standard makers of air conditioning equipment, of course. But also the big mail order houses who find it a short step from cooling fruits and vegetables to cooling people.

Even major automobile dealers are outfitting and a farm machinery firm.

The window models look a little like heavy table-style radiators. If you have an ordinary south window, installation is easy. But a steel easement must be virtually essential to accommodate a room cooler. Installing charges are still fairly high—around $25 to $45. Furthermore, though they include a year's service.

A manufacturer of gas refrigerators has started volume production of a more elaborate home air-conditioning system—a single unit year-round affair built into the house. That unit is a good deal more than the window type conditioners, but cost of fuel for year-round operation is little more than the cost of fuel for heating units alone.

Most window types use freon, a refrigerant gas. It expands and absorbs heat from the inside air, which is then blown into the room or two fans. A compressor turns the gas into liquid so it can evaporate again to repeat the job. There's a filter, too, to take out the dust.

A utility company in Chicago figures that a regular half-hour power window model will use about 1 kilowatt-hour of electricity. At $250, you can get a small air conditioning unit like this.

IN THE WINDOW, far less than $500, you can get a small air conditioning unit like this.

Chicago's Man-of-Many-Headaches' Fights Criminals and Public, Too

By JACK BARRE
NEA Staff Correspondent

Chicago.—(NEA)—Former FBI Agent Virgil Peterson probably has more headaches than any other man in Chicago.

In his unique position as director of the Chicago Crime Commission he frequently finds himself at odds with not only criminals, but law enforcement officials, politicians, and even the general public as well.

Peterson is sort of a power broker, mediator, functioning as the leader of a civilian group working to reduce crime, improve law, and improve law enforcement. His commission is the watchdog of Chicago's criminal procedure. It is the self-appointed conscience of the public.

The Chicago Crime Commission is supported entirely by public subscription, and has no official authority. It can only suggest, prod, and prod. It was formed by the Chicago Association of Commerce in 1919 during the crime uprising after the world war.

For a four-month season, the first quarter membership still would cost $100 more to run.

Before World War II the cheap and window units at least $500. Now they're under $300. A drop of $200 in just the last year and new models will come if sales go on climbing.

The sliding price trend is probably the biggest help to the boom, though the industry sees other things to rejoice in. It believes people are a lot more aware of air conditioning because of its vastly increased use in theaters, restaurants, and similar public places.

A 1949 survey asked the makers to tick their box in anticipation. It showed that less than one per cent of the nation's window homes have air conditioning, and less than two per cent of the offices.

Still, here's the uncertain war outlook which could affect the business in several ways—shortage of materials, conversion by manufacturers to war work, shortage of labor power to operate the room coolers.

War power problem exists even without war demands. Early this summer power output began to slide. Since then, power has been in short supply. It is not clear if this will be a long-term problem.

But if war and the power famine don't check it, the room air conditioning business seems destined to go on booming for a long time.

As for his distributor pit: "After all, you wouldn't at all want to be in winter without heat. Why not sit and suffer in the summer? Besides, it costs less to keep cool in the summer than to keep warm in winter."

His work received national attention.

He was named one of the nation's top 100 men in 1948.

Hopeful Discovery About Hardening of the Arteries Is An Accidental By-Product of Atomic Research

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington.—(NEA)—As the result of an accidental discovery about the nature of hardening of the arteries, the U.S. Public Health Service is planning a major research on the disease.

Arteriosclerosis, the worst killer of men all over the world, is one of the most common of all diseases in the U.S.

The amazing discovery is a by-product of atomic research. In studying the effects of atomic radiation on blood, it was found that all "hardened" arteries and veins were lined with deposits of a fatty substance called cholesterol.

The substance has the effect of constricting the vessel walls, making them narrower, and thus forcing the heart to strain at pumping blood through them.

But it has not yet been determined that a diet high in cholesterol foods, such as dairy products, necessarily causes the disease. Some persons with much cholesterol in their blood show no indication of being bothered by hardening of the arteries, while others with little cholesterol suffer from the disease.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman, however, admits that the discovery is a by-product of the study of dairy products and other high-cholesterol foods is part of the research.

"There is some evidence to indicate an over-eaten diet, high in fat, is a factor. In a preliminary study of a group of 200 men, the researchers were able to eliminate an 'abnormal' cholesterol molecule."

Specifically, that the new discovery has done is to isolate a special grain cholesterol molecule. The fatty cholesterol molecule consists of the grain cholesterol molecule.

In the new, holds the answer to further development of the research. The big ridge is whether a person's diet or some special condition is the cause.

It is the problem that the chemistry causes the formation of the grain cholesterol molecule.

Research to date has centered on further development of the research. The big ridge is whether a person's diet or some special condition is the cause.

PRACTICAL ASPECT of arterial sclerosis research centers around this ultra-contrast. It may help to discover hardening of the arteries before any symptoms develop.

The most practical aspect of AEC manned by a highly-trained research to date is the post-operative working around the clock. The study of dairy products and other high-cholesterol foods is part of the research.

Dr. John W. Gofman, with a team of able researchers at the University of California, has been in charge of the work that has been done. Part of it has been financed by AEC and part by US.

On one part of this testing. Other factors about the disease. "Of 100 men and women in any age group who had been subjected to coronary thrombosis, 97 and that makes are the most common of all diseases."

Research to date has centered on further development of the research. The big ridge is whether a person's diet or some special condition is the cause.

Under the leadership of Mrs. S. Shih, the Mission Band presented a number of choruses. Mrs. C. Veale told the story of Miss Margaret Leake of Uthbridge who recently went to India as a missionary.

Shirley McDonald expressed the thanks of the Mission Band to the ladies of the church.

LOST FOR GOOD?

Now that truckers have had their eyes opened to new business possibilities, as a direct result of the railway strike, they are not going to leave the field unexplored. On the contrary, they are going to make every effort to keep as much of their cash and the patronage that fell their way as a result of the railway stoppage.

This not unexpected development was mentioned in an address in Hamilton last week by Harold Haslam, emergency co-ordinator of the Canadian Automotive Transport Association. Mr. Haslam predicted bluntly that the railways might lose part of their erstwhile freight business, particularly in cases where, elsewhere, shippers had been sending by rail out of habit rather than because of any essential preference.

In many instances, of course, the railways still provide the best medium for freight haulage, but it is abundantly evident that in many other classifications, motor transport is a strong and successful competitor. The day passed long ago when the railways could claim anything approaching a monopoly in the freight trade. The strong possibility is that the recent unfortunate and thoroughly annoying stoppage of railway traffic channelled a good deal of business permanently to the road transportation industry. In that case, another argument against strikes will stand painfully established as far as the railways are concerned.—Branford Exporter

That Body of Hours

WRONG IDEAS ABOUT THE HEART
We all may be amazed at the wonderful work being done by surgical operation on the heart, the saving of blue babies and even grown children and adults. This is because most of us look upon the heart as a very delicate organ and believe that the slightest slip wrong with its regular beat, or rhythm, is likely to prove fatal.

In the book "You and Your Heart," Dr. H. M. Marvin, president, American Heart Association, has written ideas about the heart and heart disease. Some of these misapprehensions are: (a) heart disease is always incurable; (b) heart disease is hereditary so that nothing can be done about it; (c) heart disease is an emotional problem; (d) heart disease is caused by our present bad civilization; (e) heart disease, is brought on by high living; (f) it is wound closed, and is always fatal; (f) death from heart disease is always sudden; (g) strenuous exercise damages the heart, especially after the first flush of youth; (h) patients with heart disease will live longer if they avoid effort of all kinds and remain in bed; (i) pain over the heart is a sure sign of heart disease; (j) heart murmurs or irregular heart beats are sure signs of heart disease.

As to the heart being a very delicate organ and our assumption of surgical operations being performed on the heart, we learn that "since the heart is really just muscle, it may be repaired that the heart's beats per minute make it extremely long. Everyone knows how the upper arm muscles and back muscles or weight lifters are built up by hard work, yet we fail to apply this knowledge to the heart muscle." It can, and does so more and harder work than any other muscle of the body.

"The heart is an athletic asset in training and with even the best and most enduring of athletes slow down with age, and heart disease as well as strong and vigorous at 50 as at 20." This fact is borne out by examination of former athletes at the age of 50 or over. Ourselves, football players, track athletes, who were 30 to 40 years later, have stronger hearts than those who were not athletes.

NATURE UNPOOLED

THE BROAD-WINGED HAWK is one of the most useful predators. Smaller than a red-tail, he may be seen soaring over fields, forests and water.

He lives on small destructive insects and rodents, and is very valuable. He should be protected. Watch for the wide white tail bands.

Smuts and Lindsay Police Officers and Ross Endicott Resigns

There is a man living today to whom the death of Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, of South Africa, has special significance by reason of the fact that he once spoke with the great military leader. This man is Hugh Alexander McIlbourne St. W. Victoria of the Boer War.

Mr. Alexander recently having conversed briefly with Smuts at Pretoria, South Africa, just opposite the Palace of Justice. He was serving with the 1st Battalion of the Border Regiment and at the time was holding two horses in check while Lord Kitchener and another officer were about business. Smuts, the leader of the defeated Boers, passed Mr. Alexander on his way to the Palace of Justice and remarked, "I see you've been here." On his return, the general making that the terms were gone quipped, "I see they've been here too."

Mr. Alexander told the Post that General Smuts gave him the impression of being a man whom you could really approach. "You couldn't very well tell him from an English general," this veteran of the Boer campaign declared.

Council Quickies

A meeting of council was held on Monday at the town hall. It was short meeting so council dealt with the business before it in concise manner. Mayor Lamb was absent from the meeting.

Prison keep going up. Council found last night that it was once more to be done. Alderman C. E. Ferguson said a letter from a local funeral director explaining to council that $90 was no longer sufficient to cover the cost of a funeral. (Council has had an agreement with the local funeral director to pay $86 for burial of an indigent person). It was pointed out that Petersboro and several other places are now paying up to $100 and after some discussion council agreed to pay the director's bill for $100 for a decent funeral.

The leaks in the council are being fixed. Alderman Vincent Costello asked the night watch. He said that Mr. George Hudson, who repairs the roof, has been over at the arena after every rain looking and repairing the leaks.

With regard to the work being done in connection with the piping of the arena, Mr. Costello said that satisfactory progress is being made. The rear-end of the arena has been torn up and the workers are expected to start work right away.

Council authorized the arena committee to advertise and call for applications for the position of caretaker and the maker at the arena this winter.

Smuts in Dead-Death came to Jan Christian Smuts after a long illness.

Many looked on Jan Christian Smuts as the real founder of the Union of South Africa. There is no doubt he was one of the great men of his time.

He fought against the British in the Boer War at a guerrilla chief and saw his side lose. Then he got the British to give back what they won.

His work resulted in the birth of a nation, and he himself became a pillar of the British Empire. For 20 years his leadership helped shape the Union of South Africa, then the empire, then the world.

New Store Is Ready For Opening

On Thursday, another new store will be opened on the south side of Kent Street. Ross Norton, proprietor, will be open for business that morning and will be the second store to open in that area in two weeks.

The store will feature custom-made, hand-made, hand-finished, hand-covered, window shades and venetian blinds. Bedding such as sheets, pillow cases, bed covers, white blankets, will also be carried. The store will be open for business on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The store is prepared to make all the hardware, necessary for a complete home.

Formerly of Cough-Nation, in Trenton, Mr. Norton sold his share in Junior partner and came to Lindsay to operate his new store.

There are many modern Lindsay stores. The future ideas are manufactured by Lindsay and are carried out in the completed will be an aluminium and vitreous material, which will be pleasing to the eye.

From opening day until the last day of the Lindsay Exhibition a box will be placed in the new store and customers and visitors are asked to drop in a ticket, which they will receive from the firm and on the last day of the exhibition a drawing will be made. The winner of this draw will receive a set of linen draperies and a set of bed linen.

The Lindsay Exhibition will have a choice of any material and hardware will be made by Mr. Norton himself.

District Forester - Reports-

Here is the Weekly Report of District Forester, B. B. Wastley.

Lake Trout Season Change in Haliburton

When the Open Season for Lake Trout closes this Fall on October 31, it will not open again until May 1st, 1951. This means that it is no longer legal to angle for Lake Trout through the ice or at attempt to take them by any means between October 31 and April 30th.

The following Open Season may be stated as being from May 1st to October 31st, in any one year, throughout the District.

The Lake Trout populations in many of the Haliburton Lakes are low. This is due to the fact that the lake levels are low, resulting in a decrease in the spawning beds and the fact that little hatchery stock is available for restocking. Winter fishing is taking on the remaining Trout populations and the Department is taking drastic action to ensure that this depleted fish does not disappear from the Haliburton Lakes.

The above change in regulations also applies to the Open Season for Trout in Hastings County.

Bangor, Carleton Place, Deseronto, Eganville, Harcourt, Hawke's Bay, Madoc, Montpelier, Waverham and Wilketon.

THE GASOLINE HOURS BYLAW

Some time ago the gasoline vendors of Lindsay made representations to Town Council asking that a bylaw be passed restricting hours of sale of this commodity. The bylaw was passed with a majority vote of Council but not without some dissenting voices.

The bylaw would appear to work an unwarranted hardship on several small dealers who are forced to remain closed under the bylaw's terms while nearby competitors on the outskirts of the town sell gasoline without restraint.

These circumstances seem to merit consideration being given to repealing the bylaw.

SCHOOL IS OPEN — DRIVE WITH CARE

Tuesday marked the reopening of all schools in Lindsay and district. It is the beginning of a period in which added driving care is called for on the part of motorists. This need prevails both in town and in the country, because our highways are pathways to school just as much as they are our local roads.

Children are, for the most part, happy, carefree individuals who aren't always as watchful of traffic as adults may be. No motorist likes to hear of or see a child injured and the surest way to avoid it is to be even more careful driving than the law demands.

Parents can help prevent accidents by schooling children in the correct message but the cause is still with drivers to do everything possible to safeguard these citizens of a future day.

WE CAN TAKE TIME TO TAKE CARE OF THESE CHILDREN

NONE BAD GUESSING IN CONNECTION WITH BUDGET — WAS THERE AN ABOUT FACE ON PERSONAL INCOME TAXES?

Finance Minister Abbott's federal budget did one good thing even if it didn't sound like it. It ended the folly of guessing at what the budget is going to contain.

Digest surprise of the budget probably lay in the fact that personal income taxes were not boosted as so many had feared. It would be attributable to two things: Either the minister had no intention of increasing this levy or, having toyed with the idea, abandoned it after sensing public opposition.

Nevertheless, would the minister be so tactful that public opinion still carried so much weight with a government possessing such a preponderant majority?

Generally speaking the budget is not a hardship on the man in the street insofar as the necessities of life are concerned. Admittedly several semi-luxuries and luxuries are taxed higher but the great majority of Canadians seem to regard the revenue-seeking eye of the tax experts and there is probably some logic in the reasoning that "if one can afford these luxuries and semi-luxuries, one can afford the extra taxes."

Nevertheless, many of these items are already lucrative sources of revenue to the government and, to paraphrase, there is always the danger that "the goose that lay the golden eggs may be killed."

Generally speaking the budget seems designed to keep the government in fairly popular standing with the majority of voters.

CONSERVATION IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

The Port Perry Star has come up with a very timely article on the subject of "conservation" which we do not doubt be read with interest by everyone in this area who is aware of the importance of conserving our natural resources.

Our contemporary writes:

"There was a time when we taught our children that Canada was a country of unlimited resources, and in many cases we need to know far more about the value of the soil, the water, the timber, the fish and the wildlife on the subject of intelligent use of them. Natural resources have been defined as the things in nature which man uses or may use to satisfy wants. They include soil, water, minerals, vegetation, fish and wildlife. Of these resources, some are not renewable. By his misuse of natural resources man has deflected the soil, wasted water, consumed the minerals, destroyed the forests and exploited fish and wildlife.

"The man is to be congratulated who has made use of natural resources and this we call conservation.

"Wise use of resources in any community depends upon knowing what the resources are: taking steps to conservatively protect them; and, finally, making certain that the natural resources are renewed.

"The only possible ways of doing this is by developing a public understanding of the value and importance of natural resources. We can do this in the home and in the school and in the community at large.

"We can't do this by shouting our children that Canada has unlimited resources. We can't do it by shrugging our shoulders and putting the job on someone else. Either you and I are conservation conscious or we are not.

"... Canada's resources will quickly disappear and with it our prosperity and national life."

FALL IN THE COUNTRY

We are now approaching one of the most beautiful seasons of the year in this section of the country — a period of comparative calm and rest and nature prepares for the winter which is in the offing.

The Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity has been making a notable effort to popularize this time of the year among tourists and may eventually meet with a good measure of success. This might even be of great benefit to the tourist resort operators in this area whose present source of revenue is largely restricted to the summer months. We great obstacle to success in this direction lies in the fact that the majority of people regard summertime as vacation-time.

While the warmer months have their advantages, the cooler months have their compensations. For example in autumn there is the exquisite beauty of the frost-touched foliage of trees and shrubs — There is the refreshing fall air and the relaxation which comes after a day in the open as well as the assurance of the warmth of the fireside at evening.

Yes, there are many compensations to a vacation in the fall and the day may come when many more people will choose this season for their holiday.

Time Out!

A STRANGE TALE...

One summer day in 1979, ... it with each companion ... It ran trains to New York ... two hours from Philadelphia to the big town.

Their destination was Port Washington ... not far outside the city ... the train never arrived.

The excursion train, called behind, ... with a Philadelphia-bound train ... track line of the North Pennine, ... railway.

Bicyclist's parents died ... most of them children, and 120 others were injured.

The wreck brought together a lot of homes, and it finished the railroad, which at best never had a really successful history.

The old North Penn was finished ... and it was the end of the day ... one of the Nation's most successful railroads.

"I don't know," Well, it's a strange tale.

"Pret of all, the North Penn didn't run on a locomotive or a railroad car. And it doesn't operate a single mile of track or have a single station to its name. And despite that, it's a flourishing concern, and it's been for a long time. ... 300 years to go."

It is a real corporation, too ... It has offices on Chestnut Street, just off Broad in downtown Philadelphia ... and has a Real Board of Directors and Officers — all distinguished citizens. It's headed by stockholders are the envy of the other railroads around and some have to wonder where their next dividend is coming from. They grow it — one fine, fine and deprecatory—they collect their dividend per cent a year.

Now did the North Penn get its start at a convenient place?

Well, it was the beginning of the North Penn was organized by some mighty shrewd men. They remained firm along their claim of way to sell land for practically nothing.

They had had "Main Line" (between Philadelphia and Richmond) ... There also was a branch line to Doylestown ... kind, in cooperation.

Sunderland Post Office Is Robbed Of $50 Cash

Sunderland (PSE) Sunderland's new post office was robbed Thursday night.

Postmaster John Allen was surprised on Friday morning to find three hundred fifty pounds on the back door, guarded entry and removed around the use in cash from the post office. Everything that could be recovered was, but the $50 seemed to be all that is missing. The door of the safe had been pried or jammed and a new one was installed today.

BROKER EMPLOYER AND WRONG

In the House of Commons, a Salisbury, present head of the great houses of Cecil—spoke memorable words on the West's attitude toward Asian Communism. Said he: "I understand that our recognition of the Chinese Government has been conferred ... that India intends to adopt a detached attitude and ... it is impossible to act as an honest broker between right and wrong." (Time Magazine)

AVOID STRIKES

Railway employees have rights. Railway employers have rights. The people of Canada who the railways serve have rights.

What seems to be needed to protect the rights of all three parties involved is a strike—employer, employee and the public—the legal setting up of tribunals for the compulsory settlement of these labor-management disputes—tribunals whose decisions shall be final and binding on both parties to the dispute just as decisions of our courts have long been accepted as final in other disputes. Give to this tribunal jurisdiction to hear not only the principals to the dispute but representatives of the public where the interests of the public are involved and may be injuriously affected—and then abolish the present legal right to strike.

JUNK ARMADA

The American Seventh Fleet spot a Chinese Communist amphibious invasion of Formosa? The answer is not too clear. If the would-be invaders were preparing to set forth in 10,000-ton transports with naval escort there might be more certainty of stopping them. But they are reportedly to embark in at least 5,000 junks, perhaps 10 to 20 soldiers to a boat.

A correspondent of the Province Evening Bulletin, writing from Formosa, calls these junks "one of the most seaborne craft afloat anywhere in the world, powered by sail or engine, and they can be stopped only by sinking. And that is not easy to do. Each crew, it is said, is provided with squares of canvas and wooden pegs with which to plug the holes in the hulls."

The problem facing the planes and guns of the Seventh Fleet is much like the problem presented by waves of dispersed infantry advancing on land. Can the junks be sunk fast enough, especially in the darkness of night, before they can beach themselves? The Communists are sure to launch any attack. Machine gun fire might not sink them. Dive bombers could if they can get around fast enough during the small portion of the 24 hours when they are vulnerable to be both light and clear. Each junk sunk eliminates but a squad or two of enemy fighters.

There is no danger of the junk armada striking the Seventh Fleet. But it could inflict what amounts to a defeat if enough men and munitions got through to overwhelm the Nationalist army on the big island.

THE HUMBLE PETUNIA

Much of the gay color of our August gardens comes from the lowly petunia, one of the hardiest, showiest and cheapest of our flowers.

A single petunia plant is nothing to cheer about. But in masses, for borders and beds, petunias return a rich reward for the small space they occupy and a gardener's worth of some five weeks of lovely and impressive bloom in pink, red, purple and white.

It is a mistake to despise the petunia because it is cheap. Solid masses of petunias in the Arboretum of the Central Experimental Farm show the effective use which can be made of them in ornamental gardening. —Ottawa Journal

BOILED BEEF IN BRITAIN

Quite a lively discussion has been going on in New York papers over the statement made in a letter to the press stating that the writer, a native of Britain, had never encountered boiled beef there. One newspaper editor suggested reading Mr. Bedford's Cookbook to find proof that boiled beef is a British dish, while another letter-writer made this contribution to the debate:

"There is a famous British music-hall ditty entitled 'Boiled Beef and Cabbage' which describes this diet, frequently used among the poorer classes in England. As a visitor here from Britain I can assure you that while the roast beef of Yorkshire puddings are often dressed, boiled beef and cabbage are more often the order of the day.

In these days of high-priced roasts and steaks there must be many a man here, well as in Britain, who do not turn up their nose at boiled beef, with or without cabbage. —St. Thomas Times-Journal

Want to win $200? The Egyptian government will pay that if you capture a Waab and bring it back alive. Before you start your safari, though, just one word of caution: The Waab doesn't exist. BLAME GOVERNMENT

(W. L. Clark in Windsor Star)

When, and if, taxes are increased to pay for added defence, it will mean that further reductions will be made from pay cheques.

It should be made plain that these increased deductions are due to Dominion Government taxes. Many of the people will be inclined to blame the taxpayer and say, "Why should I pay for this?"

The present method of deducting taxes before the taxed individual even sees the money he has earned makes it safe for the Government. They get that just

Chief of Two Departments

For the past year, Lindsay's Police Department and also the Fire Department have been under the direct control of one man, Chief of Police Webster. A searching is going on at the moment as to whether this plan is a wise economy and efficiency with the public at its best year.

Now, as a matter of fact, a good many people when this plan was first proposed did not like the idea but as the economy and efficiency with the public and the likelihood of its not being permanent. It however has on the whole worked out with surprising success, for anyone who has had to call either department has been amazed at the efficiency and courtesy with which any request was carried out. The growing dependability of the two services shows a determination to overcome weaknesses caused by earlier experience and lack of training.

It looks as if there is a natural relation between police and fire departments for if there is a fire, police of necessity should be there at once to cooperate with firemen.

We did prefer to see the police office on Kent Street with the public seeing the officers going in and out, because there is something inspiring about the men, keen men who look to have good improvement in the citizens of Lindsay. Since all operations have been open to the press and public, should difficulties appear that would make it desirable to revert to separate departments the public will soon be aware that the City Council is always glad to know your viewpoint.

A great deal of credit should go to Police Chairman W. A. Waismann, Chief Webster and his staff for the successful efforts they have made to give improvement to the citizens of Lindsay. Since all operations have been open to the press and public, should difficulties appear that would make it desirable to revert to separate departments the public will soon be aware that the City Council is always glad to know your viewpoint.

There wouldn't seem to be any point in upsetting the present arrangement just for the sake of going back to the old system with two department heads. However, if someone feels they have a better proposal, Council would not doubt be pleased to consider it in the light of true facts and, if it is generally felt it has merit, it would be quite in order to have an expression of opinion by ballot.

As surely as the unions get their union dues by having the check-off. Before the check-off was established, union collectors had to bound members to collect. In the same way, before taxes were deducted, the Government had to bound some citizens to collect taxes.

Now, when people think the tax deductions are just holes in the pay cheques, not taxes. They blame the employers for not paying enough, when so much is taken to appease the tax-gatherer.

"The hammer for on Daddy's foot," sobbed Willy. "Why honey that's nothing to cry about."

"I didn't cry," whimpered Willy. "I laughed."

MINDEN — Saturday was a big day in Minden. It was fair day and a top crowd turned out to the fairgrounds under first fall weather.

A colorful parade left the Recreation Center at 1:30 p.m. for the fair grounds. The parade was led by three floats followed by school pupils carrying their banners and singing as they marched. In the parade were floats of flowers, vegetables and home cooking as well as a fine display of needlecraft.

Nearly 91, Railroad Reminiscences

A resident of Lindsay for 35 years, Sam Harris, 38 Durham Street, will celebrate his 91st birthday on Friday.

Although a little bit of an old timer, Mr. Harris has a long memory and still remembers many incidents of his earlier life in the railroad. He recalls that Lindsay was quite a boom town when he first came here in September, 1884.

Mr. Harris was employed as a switchman on the Grand Trunk Railway in those days and this was an important railway center.

A slab falling off a truck was blamed for an accident about three miles north of Cobourg Monday afternoon.

A car driven by Robert Bowerly, 35, of Lindsay, was wrecked when the driver tried to avoid landing a slab which fell off a truck. According to the driver, he was making a south-bound slab of truck when he noticed a slab was about to fall. As he drove opposite the truck, the slab fell and Bowerly feared that it would come through the windshield. He swerved to avoid it and in so doing lost control of the car. The slab did strike the car, however and put a dent in the top. The car ran into some large rocks in the east ditch and as a result quite heavy damage was suffered to the vehicle. Bowerly was unhurt.

Sales Show Gain Over Year Before

New York, Sept. 18 (UPI)—Lindsay stands out as a rich market, with income and spending at a level above that of most other towns in Canada. This is brought out in a new, copyrighted survey of buying habits, prepared by States Marketing, Inc., covering all sections of Canada and the United States.

The high standard of living prevailing in Lindsay is indicated by income and retail spending down the past year. The local stores registered a sales total of $1,170,000, which was well above the city quota. On the basis of its population it should have accounted for only 4700 percent of Canada's sales.

This $1,170,000 sales record was a high one for the volume of business done in the previous year. $10,000. The ability of local families to spend more was made possible, by better incomes. The 2,800 families in Lindsay attained a gross income of $8,800 in 1949. Dividing this by the 2,800, the average family income was $3,143.

The fact that the sales volume in Lindsay exceeded the total income indicates that the city is the hub of a large trading area.

After analyzing Lindsay as to population, income, sales and other significant factors, the survey assigns it a "B" rating. This is 27 percent above the national "B" rating of 1949. This rating rates a whole in sales potential.

Arena Unable To Pay $700. Water Board Holds The Bill

The arena committee has had more than its share of trouble lately but it was to be water trouble Thursday when the Water Board was notified that the arena had not paid the bill for water used in the arena.

It seems that about $700 worth of water was poured into the arena last spring and the committee hasn't paid the bill. The Water Board was very unhappy about the whole situation when told by the arena committee that the committee has no money with which to pay the bill.

The arena committee has in view of the trouble this year with the piping at the rink, the Water Board should be notified of the debt and assume the loss of $700. The arena is a community project that belongs to all the taxpayers of the town and it would be a nice gesture to pay the part of the Water Board, he pointed out.

M. Collins, board member, was to follow the bill but he was the obligation. While the board did not intend to press them (the arena committee) for payment of the bill, it should be not set aside until such time as the arena committee plus, Mr. D. Sinclair, who is also a member of the board, agreed with the board. The debt was a liability of the board, he pointed out and should be paid by the arena committee as a bad debt. He moved that this be done and the motion was seconded and passed.

Mr. Sinclair expressed the opinion that "there is something wrong" in the arena committee's refusal to pay the bill. He said the arena committee was the manager of the rink, he said.

Two Driving Charges Are Dropped Here

A charge of dangerous driving and a charge of careless driving against Fred Corry, of Ardenburg, were dismissed in Police Court Friday afternoon.

The charges arose as a result of an accident involving three vehicles on the evening of April 13, 1950. The first witness called was Archie Graham, who resides about two miles east of Oakwood. According to Mr. Graham's testimony, on that Saturday evening about 7:20 he was proceeding east towards Lindsay on No. 7 Highway, about two miles east of Oakwood his private drive was blocked by a car.

As he approached this gateway, he signalled his intention to make a left turn and at the moment he was about to make the turn he noticed a car proceeding west and approaching him at a rapid pace. He presumed he would not have time to turn the car and pulled his vehicle to the right side of the travelled portion of the highway.

At the moment he moved to the right, he left a small gap in the highway. The car approaching him moved to the extreme right side of the highway and at the moment he made the Graham vehicle, the two right tires of the Graham vehicle struck the right shoulder of the road.

Conquerwood Stepping Out Of Civic Arena

Toronto, Sept. 13, Charles R. Conquerwood, who twice pulled more votes in a civic election than any citizen in the 100-year history of the city of education, will not see re-election to his Ward 9 seat in the December elections. It was learned yesterday.

Mr. Conquerwood is widely known in this district and frequently returns to Lindsay to address local service club meetings.

A member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Mr. Conquerwood has been continuously associated with the Toronto school board for 18 years, a record maintained by any other trustee on the 180 board.

He is dropping out of public service to spend more time on a hobby which is a recognized national authority—color. His prime objective will be to establish a color authority.

The Ward 9 trustee, who is president of the Canada Printing Club, was appointed to the board's advisory voluntary committee by the Canadian Manufacturers Association in 1932. This committee is made up of equally elected representatives of manufacturing and business.

Mr. Conquerwood served on the committee for six years, and had been a member of the board since 1928, when he was the Ward 9 trustee. This committee was appointed to fill the seat of the next election.

At election time other trustees, asked him to run for the seat and reluctantly he did. He headed the ticket in Ward 9 and has done so in every campaign since. He has been returned to office six times.

Mr. Conquerwood was chairman of the advisory voluntary committee in 1932, chairman of the management committee in 1940, chairman of the finance committee in 1942 and chairman of the board in 1942.

Among his achievements was the establishment of a public relations committee in 1941. He felt such a committee was needed to tell the public what the board was doing. He was appointed to the board setting up of an advisory salary committee two years ago.

The salary committee, composed of teachers and trustees, handled teachers' requests for more money. The teachers and trustees expressed their views and heard why they were not granted.

Mr. Conquerwood is interested in the welfare of the board and the welfare of the community. He is a Canadian representative of the British Columbia Education Association and is the director of the Inver-City School of the Ontario District.

"It speaks with ultimate authority," he said.

The society, he related, supplied the spiritual needs of all members of all denominations. It is the agency for translating, publishing and distributing the Bible.

It's a good way to get some interesting done too for one has to really go rooting to find cash—those. These sales are catching on so as we better get busy on them.

YVELTIN
Many a home-maker is getting where or where for the first time this fall.

If you're in this group, here are some new sewing and cutting hints. First off, when cutting velvet, lay the cloth on a flat surface with the pile side up. . . Except when you're cutting on a fold. Then the velvet can be folded lengthwise with the pile inside.

To avoid injury to the pile, use one, line needles in place of pins to fasten pattern pieces to the velvet. Mark all pattern markings with tailor's tacks, using all thread.

When assembling the pieces, use fine needles instead of pins. Short stitches are necessary.

FURNITURE NEWS!!

even bustling altitudes with all trends are recommended. Machine stitch with the snap, light tension and even stitches—about 12 to 14 inches—recommended. Judge the stitches by the pile, but avoid outside stitching. Finish seams with overcasting or blind-stitch.

Glennsman's Gratitude
It's not enough that the poor husband has to foot the bill for his wife's fur coat. He's also providing the inspiration or the design for the perfect look or leopard the status his wife has.

New York designer Bette Dorsey went right into the male wardrobe for one of the costliest of her new winter collection.

The overcoat - a light and little with a straight shoulder line, small back on the skirt. The masculine style is characterized in hood, while mink, ermine, camel and peltan knit. It takes on a dash in choppy dry knit green felt or metropolitan blue. And because in children's mink, light fluff or mink peltan knit. A short version in white mink is recommended.

Fun Designer says other trends this year are fewer smaller collars or they have a thicker sweater, sweaters and deeper cuffs.

She says the full-length coat will be particularly important in fur fashion this year, because of shorter hemlines and the trend on dress and coat costume rather than on suits.

One of the more distinctive models in the Jiffy Dorothy collection is a one-sleeved shawl. An inclusive model of jacket-and-shawl. One profile looks like a cape jacket with a large Dolman sleeve and turned-back cuff. All the center back becomes a straight shawl to drape over the shoulders, and wrap loosely and decoratively around the arm. These showed up in the collection in luxurious mink, in Russian broadtail, Mediterranean blue carot and chinilla.

One of the gaudiest of the day was knitting up with the new line and wool yarn. The said her husband thought they were better and he liked the feel of them on. This same yarn was telling us she had never seen such a wide assortment of lovely wools as she did in a favorite dealer shop on Willis Street. There was every color in the rainbow she said and the most both shades you can imagine. Whether it is for sex or wearers who are to be like the shade you want.

ABERTAS IN
There, Alberta appears to be coming to it you're thinking of, cannot come. We sampled them yesterday and they were a bit on the green side. The one I like best. Some good coats just preserve any good. They may not be good. Perhaps the season is not many enough for them and a couple of good coats may ripen them and give them a good flavor. Most of them to make good use of it all fall while they last for it is always too short a time before they are gone.

White Frying
When making plain food-frying for a cake, add about two tablespoons of cornstarch and use less sugar. This saves sugar, and the frying will remain thicker and prettier. It is especially good for fruit cakes.

Improve Starch
Smoothness and glossiness can be more easily secured, when ironing starched pieces, by stirring the starch three or four times while ironing with a puffed iron.

Try minced left-over chicken with butter, some onion, salt and pepper, butter, green pepper, and seasoning. Hot buttered biscuits will be considerably improved.

Soap Flakes
Try using an egg before to beat soap flakes into a foam. You will be surprised how few flakes will be required to make a lot of suds.

So you're going to get married

When Mary and John got married... John made a decision. "Mary," he said, "our income is going to be very small. But if we work it well, it should cover our food... the rent, and one day perhaps, a house of our own." Then he laughed, and said "Mary, I want you to look after all the money for us. I'm not just trying to pass the buck... It's simply that I believe a small income should belong entirely to the wife." So Mary took over the entire responsibility of saving the money. John settled down to making a success of his work. John's plan worked, until the first baby came. Then he had to take over the family bank account. He found everything in splendid shape. Mary was well known at the Branch of the Dominion Bank near her home. And, over the years, John established a good credit. They had many of the things they wanted, by building up their Bank Account... a little at a time.

Today, John's financial responsibilities are more complicated than they were when he and Mary were first married... More complicated, yes... but in no way confused... He looks after many of them himself... with the help of his friendly, helpful Branch Manager.

Beef Judges Award

Sunderland Entry The Championship

Beef at its best was exemplified in a superb showing of 3 breeds with the Aberdeen Angus leading with 28 first prize winners and Herefords and Scotch Short Horns both going a close second with each.

The beef breeds were housed in the outside stables for the first time in many years as the inside space was taken up by the surplus dairy cattle—"Showings in beef cattle are on the whole, I would say, doubled" remarked Mr. Roslyn Fleck of Oakwood.

The Aberdeen Angus were exhibited in four herds totalling 50 head, the Herefords were in six herds totalling 42 head, the scotch Shorthorns were in 3 herds totalling 33 head with 125 head in the three beef breeds. In an endeavour to get cattle smoother and more refined.

ined breeders are selling them noticeably smaller and smaller. This was true of all three breeds and much conjecture was made as to the true cause. However they were highly finished and of excellent appearance. Dual purpose Short-horns were not out in the beef breeds and glamour ruled the show as with shining coats and well-fitted condition, the best in modern care and feeding was exemplified by our foremost local breeders. The crowds' interest was held as explanations of judging beef in the authentic matter was shown. What summed the urban speculators was how the long shining coats of the animals were marcelled so beautifully. One lady remarked "no wonder we pay for beef if the glamour of a beef beauty parlour has to be utilized." On enquiry she was advised that as a rule, lively brushing and combings were all that is ordered.

marly necessary for the animals and it is only when attending special functions such as the Lindsay Central Exhibition that the animals were thus glamourised as it is only fitting that any high bred lady or gent should be on such occasions. The interested spectators found in these otherwise, best seen, best calf.
